Oil Refinery Crew Locating Here

Thru the efforts of Grayling Chamber of Commerce a surveying crew of the Gulf Oil Refining Co. is locating in Grayling. Mr. Reynolds of that Company was in Grayling Friday and let the local committee know what they required.

Accommodations for the housing of eight families, 33 rooms for single men, office space and a store building would be necessary to take care of the needs required. A special meeting of the Board of Directors and other members was called for that night at the offices of Drs. Keyport & Clippert and a special committee was appointed to canvass the city for apartments and rooms. Reports were turned in early Monday morning and when Mr. Vinton Bray of Montana, and Mr. J. H. Neville of Dallas, Texas, engineers with the surveying crew, arrived Monday noon the committee was prepared to submit to them spartments and rooms for their inspection.

Ine response by the public was spontaneous and the committee was able to secure the accommodations of 7 apartments and one house. Burke's apartments provided five places; Thorwald Sorenson a five-room apartment and Alfred Sorenson a three-room apartment. The Reagan house has songs, and talks. Memberships in the C. of C. are moder ate in cost and, in fact, very low as compared to those in most cities. It takes money to operate a C. of C. and everyone should share the burden financially and also in personal service.

Reception Given For Pastor and Family

Welcoming their new pastor and his family, Rev. and Mrs. Christian Stockholm and son Benedict the members of the Danish Lutheran congregation held a reception Sunday evening at Danebod Hall.

The festivities began with a supper at 6:30 o'clock, when approximately one hundred guests found their places at the long tables in the dining room. These had been attractively centered with bouquets of yellow spring flowers, guarded by yellow candles in crystal holders.

Mr. Christenson passed away at his home in Flint Sunday, having been confined to his bed since September. He had been ailing for over a year however.

Hans Christenson was born Oct 31, 1860 in Langeland, Denmark and immigrated to America in 1881 settling in Manistee. In 1883 he came to Grayling and on July 10, 1885 he was united in mar-riage to Caroline Marie West. To the union seven sons were born, one son Ernest died in 1910 and another son Johannes died overseas in 1918 while in service dur ing the World war.

Mr. Christenson worked for Salling, Hanson Company in their mills and in the lumber yards as lumber scaler. In 1895 he pur chased a farm in Beaver Creex where the family resided until 1933. Mr. and Mrs. Christenson left for Flint that year, their children and families having gone there previously. The former served as mail carrier on the route between Grayling and Fletcher for years and served his township as supervisor, clerk treasurer and on the Board of Surviving besides the widow are the five sons, Axel, Carl, Henry, Frederick and Christian and 13 grandchildren, who have the sympathy of many Grayling friends in their bereavement.

Mrs. Christenson and sons and their families all accompanied the remains here except one son Fred, who was unable to come be cause of illness. Others from out of-town who came to be in attendance included Mrs. Theodore Kristofferson, Mrs. Gladys Kil-bourn, Flint; Mr. and Mrs. Otis Hanna and five grandchildren and Ralph Hanna, Traverse City; Mrs Maude Belmore, Mrs. Wilcox West Branch, and Mr. Fred Belnore of St. Clair Shores.

Kalkaska's annual trout festival vill get under way Friday noon, starting with a huge parade. From that time on every minute of the time until the late hours of Saturday night there will be something going on to entertain the crowds.

Hundreds of Grayling people are planning on attending the festival on both days, where they are always assured of a good time. The fishermen and press banquet will be held Friday night. and this is always an enjoyable affair.

L. Kramer, the festival manager, says they will have a great show and doesn't want any Grayling people to miss seeing it.

Dr. Keyport and O. P. Schumann have been requested to act as judges of the parade.

REVEALS SIX CASES CHILD-HOOD T.B.

Among Crawford county residents X-rayed at the recent Roscommon county tuberculosis Christmas seal clinic were found six cases of the childhood type of tuberculosis, the Michigan Tuberculosis Association reported this week. Only the penetrating rays of the modern weapon of discovery—the X-ray—can detect this early stage of the disease, it was pointed out.

Although the childhood type tuberculosis is comparative harmless, it must be carefully watched for through neglect t can become the forerunner of the more dangerous adult type, warned the Association. Good food, plenty of fresh air and sufficient rest, as well as avoidance of additional exposure to the disease, are necessary.

It Sounds Queer—

Wisconsin's new law to prevent trucking over the main highways on week-ends and holidays is going to be watched all over the country. It will come as a surprise to motorists to be told that instead of entering a protest against the new law the big trucking companies actually are welcoming it, so there will be no opposition from that source, queer as it may sound. They contend they can, by shifting schedules, get the most necessary part of their freight in the clear in time to observe the week-end as holiday. They say it will provide more time for overhauling and needed repairs, and that means a saving of money. It will mean shorter driving hours, and that means their drivers will always be in better condition. And their damage suits will dwindle be-cause most of their accidents are said to be over the week-ends So the balance of the country is watching what promises to be one of the most advanced steps to-ward safety taken in this country be early you prestige as a still ward safety taken in this country in a long time.—Midland Daily he early won prestige as a student of government and an au

Progress in Michigan's unceas ing campaign for improving maternal and child health is recorded this May Day, according to the chairman, in new low maternal death rates, declining infant that he continue in state affairs, death rates and an increasing birth rate. These factors combined with the ever-growing com-munity recognition of the value of child health preservation provide a challenge for even greater progress during 1938.

Many child health problems still remain to be solved, how-ever, according to Miss Delavan, if we would achieve the 1938 May Day slogan, "Speed Children on the Road to Health." Last year 5,435 children died before they reached the age of five 4,374 of these never completed their first year of life. The 2,707 stillbirths are also a tremendous loss of our human resources. Premature births, pneumonia, diarrhea and whooping cough still take their toll of child lives.

"Protection and improvement of child health is necessarily a cooperative, year-around rewho is also director of education for the Michgian Department of Health. Announces Candidacy

Vernon J. Brown, who recently made public his decision to retire from the state legislature, has announced his candidacy for the nomination to the office of Auditor General at the state repub lican convention this fall. Mr Brown has represented the second district of Ingham county for the past ten years.

Vernon Brown is well known throughout Michigan, both as a legislator and as publisher of the Ingham County News. His articles on state government and his editorial comments on state matters have been widely read. At one time his syndicated articles were being published in more than a third of the weekly and daily newspapers of Michigan. They were circulated in every county of Michigan. Entering the legislature in 1929 after varied experience in township thority on taxation and finance His campaign for economy in state government waged in 1937 resulted in the passage of nearly 100 economy bills prepared by a commission of inquiry into cost of state government. Mr. Brown was a member of the commission. Passage of the bills resulted in the reduction of the 1933 budge by approximately $5,000,000.

In his announcement, the retir ing legislator declares that he is entering the campaign as a result of hundreds of letters and editor ial comments emanating from every section of Michigan urging state at this time in the office of auditor general," stated Mr. Brown. "It is my belief that the importance of this office to the people of Michigan has been overlooked in recent years. I am confident that if I am nominated and elected I can render a dis tinct service in that capacity.

"Clamor for party patronage has defeated several measures proposed in the legislature and aimed at economy. Others which possed have failed in accomplishing their purpose because of unfriendly administration. Obsolete accounting methods frequently lead to confusion and controvers concerning the conditon of state funds. For years there has been complaint regarding duplication and unnecessary expense but no remedy has been applied. Use less expense, not only at the state capital but in the off county seat in Michigan, results from unnecessary accounting be tween county and state, required once but now to no purpose since can be effected without sacrifice of efficiency. My experience in the state legislature has led me to discover these shortcomings in that if nominated and elected auditor general I can do much to reduce costs and increase ef ficiency.

wars of our present day are fought with the products of scientific laboratories,

The wars of history were fought to preserve something tremendously worth saving. Sacrifice counted not the cost when challenged by such an appeal. When we review the economic bankruptcy of Europe today, we naturally wonder what is the meaning of its war cry. Mr. Hoover said, on his recent return from abroad, that there will be no important war in the near future. Yet scarcely a day passes that we do not hear through the press dispatches of the growing hatred and bitter jealousies gnawing at the heart of foreign powers. Europe may be engaged in a bloodless rev olution, but conditions are so perilous that the striking of a single match might start the conflagration. All of which leads us to ask, what is the ultimate purpose of it all? If it is to destroy democracy, could not some other way be devised than resorting to arms? For what ultimate purpose are the weak being crushed to the wall, and peoples of a certain race persecuted and driven en masse from their homes and occupations? Surely such barbarious atrocities are indisputably indicative of the collapse of modern civilization. When Rome fell, the barbarians began to build anew on the ruins of the past. Do we want that? Is history to repeat these tragic chapters in our enlightened age? When the average layman is permitted to see the field work accomplishment record of this company, he is astonished at the amount of constructive work which has been completed in such a short period of time. Among the more important projects that have been finished, we have the fol-lowing, viz.: Nurseries, 40,709 nan days of work; tree and plant disease control, 16,129 acres treated; 26,167,000 fish planted in our lakes and streams; 170 miles of truck trails and minor roads constructed; and many other projects of like nature too numerous to mention.

It will be of interest to the average citizen to know just what projects are now in the process of construction. No doubt he will be pleased to learn that these projects have been planned to cover the future needs of a conservation program designated to anticipate the wishes and desires of the most far-sighted of our visest conservationists who have spent their lives studying the problems of preserving our naurl resources.

Among the most important projects now in process of contruction are the following, viz.: 41 feet by 26 feet, building to

Many Endings to Novel Probably no novel in history has had more endings than "The Mys of Edwin Drood," which Charles Dickens was writing when he died suddenly in 1870. As Dickens left no notes about how he intended to end the story, notes a writer in Collier's Weekly, more than a hundred writers have attempted to complete it, one being a spiritualist, who claimed that his ending was authentic because he had obtained his facts directly from Dickens' spirit.

Turning Her Coat Once Saved Margaret of Kent

cost little for service and repairs.

olden days in Britain, Queen Margaret of Kent, the first Christian queen to teach her people that religion, was imprisoned in a tower by her cousin Frith, who wished to rule Kent himself. Queen Margaret longed to escape to join her soldiers, who were gathered across the river, afraid to attack the tower.

Margaret saw them from her prison and knew she must read them some way to inspire their flagging courage. But if she tried to cross the river, which was frozen solid and white, her many-colored cloak of bright patches would be easily seen by Frith's men.

However, the gallant queen made the attempt, relates a writer in the Washington Star, and escaping the tower, had an inspiration at the river side. By turning her cloak inside out, its white lining protected her from sight on the ice as she braved the crossing and joined her men on the other side, undiscov ered. The next day Kent was in her power again and Christian rule

Early times in Britain were dangerous, indeed. Every town was surrounded by a deep forest for protection. If a stranger entered here, he was compelled to announce his coming by blowing continuous blasts on a horn. Otherwise he would be speared on sight if discovered. "Skulking strangers come for no good," was the belief.

A Classic Example The Hermitage, beautiful and historic home of Andrew Jackson, lies only a few minutes from the heart of Nashville, Tenn. The building is a classic example of the best architecture of its day and is preserved in every detail almost precisely as it was when Old Hickory passed away. The site of The Hermitage presents a scene of sylvan loveliness and quietude remindful of days gone by. The home contains relics and mementos of Jackson's tempestuously busy and aggressive life. The rooms are furnished with the pieces which Jackson and his family actually used, and the grand stairway in the lower hall ranks as one of the most beautiful.

BILLY MINK HUNTS IN VAIN

IN VAIN Billy Mink searched for rats in the big barn. The smell of them was everywhere, but the rats themselves had disappeared completely. Time after time, fol-lowing a trail, Billy was led to the opening out of doors under the barn. It was clear that all the rats had left the big barn and that all had gone out the same way. "They've moved off somewhere."

thought Billy. "I frightened them so that they didn't dare stay here any longer. All have gone, young, old, big, little, and middle-sized There is no fun left for me here in the big barn. I think I'll follow them. Where they can go, I can go. They are a gang of robbers. They are ugly, dirty, and of no ac count whatever. In fact, they're worse than that. They have so many babies at a time and have them so often that there is danger that they will drive their honest neighbors off the earth. Yes, I think I'll follow them."

Billy cautiously poked his head through the opening that led out of doors. Then he blinked with surprise. Outside everything was spotlessly white, It was snowing. It had been snowing for some time. Not a footprint of a single rat was to be seen. Moreover, there was no scent for Billy to follow by means of his wonderful nose. had covered their trail. Billy could only lick his lips and wonder in which direction those rats had gone.

"If I knew more about this part of the country I would know better where to look for those rats." muttered Billy. "As it is, I haven't been here long enough to know about anything but this barn, the henhouse, and the big woodpile be-tween the two. I wonder if they can have moved over to that woodpile or to the henhouse. The woodpile would give them hiding places, but they wouldn't find anything to eat there.

"If they have gone to the henhouse they can hide underneath it. and for food they can steal eggs and kill a hen. I've known rats to do just those things. I've known them to kill chickens and then have the owner of the chickens blame me or Jimmy Skunk for it. I hate rats. Everybody else does. I know most everybody and I don't know a single person who has a good word to gave for Robber the Rat and his gang. I think I'll run over to the hen-

A survey of the marks given to those graduates of Grayling High school who were in last year's class and went on to various colleges provides interesting information. Seven members of the class of 1937 are attending colleges, including Bay City Business College, Bay City Junior College, Cleary College, Central State Teachers College and the University of Michigan.

The students ranked from top to bottom of their high school class of twenty-eight members. The combined marks ran as follows:

Baseball

During spring vacation the local baseball squad pried the the lid off the baseball season with a

"MAMA! MAMA! I DON'T WANNA DIE!"

BUI SHE DID DIE! Poor kid, only 8 years old . . . prettiest little girl you'd ever want to see. It was horrible to see her lying in the street . . . bloody and broken. Her Mother hysterical . . . holding her in her arms for the last time. And the man who killed her was there too. He didn't look like a murderer, but you could tell by his face that he felt like one. He just stood there thinking . . . thinking that if he had only been driving a little slower . . . watching where he was driving instead of rushing to get home a few minutes earlier, that child would still be living. But all the "ifs" in the world wouldn't bring that little girl back to life. It was too late!

And pity that driver . . . he will always see that scene . . . his punishment is life imprisonment to a horrible memory. No, Mister, you don't want to be that way . . . just remember when you drive your car that "ifs" can't bring back the dead, or restore the crippled to health . . . drive carefully and there won't be any "ifs!" Please Drive Carefully!
